Advanced fuel for your home

Glowmax is an additive-enhanced kerosene specifically designed for use in your home and it's exclusively delivered by BUTLER FUELS.

Now better than ever thanks to more than 12 months of further research, development and testing, this high quality, cleaner burning, advanced fuel remains efficient throughout delivery, storage and burning, giving you peace of mind whenever you need warmth.

"With the new Glowmax, our AGA has maintained a constant temperature and the performance is great"

Mr & Mrs McGarry, Wiltshire

Smoother running all round

Glowmax's exclusive formula cares for your oil fuel system and ensures that the fuel is stored and delivered to your boiler in perfect condition. Once ignited, it also burns more cleanly than standard kerosene, offering truly efficient warmth. It really does lead to smoother running all round to help you keep your whole family safe and warm.

"With the new Glowmax, everything seems to be running better than before"

Mrs Shoosmith, Somerset

Better performance with less carbon and charring

Glowmax produces significantly lower amounts of carbon in the burner which means that the fuel ignites more readily. As an added bonus, reduced carbon within the sensitive parts of your oil fuel system means that your boiler should run more smoothly too.

“Even after a good few months, there’s still no carbon evident”

Craig Evans, OFTEC approved engineer

Cleaner storage and burning process

Glowmax has been specially enhanced to maintain its quality throughout your oil fired system by significantly reducing the build-up of sediment in your oil tank. The hydrocarbons in Glowmax won't degrade over time as quickly as those contained in standard kerosene. This maintains the quality of the fuel and ensures that you can relax, knowing your oil fuel system is running as efficiently as possible.

“After several months, the appliance components are still really clean”

Tony Wicks, OFTEC approved engineer

Protection from corrosion

Glowmax's advanced formula helps to guard against corrosion developing inside your oil fuel system by forming a protective film on all metal surfaces between the tank and boiler. This stops water vapour from coming into direct contact with metal surfaces and causing corrosion. You don't need to worry about a thing!

"Our boiler has been working perfectly with the new Glowmax"

Mr Oakey, Oxfordshire

Enhanced protection from copper pipework

Copper pipework sometimes causes a chemical reaction with standard kerosene heating fuels, causing the fuel to lose some of its effectiveness. Glowmax's advanced formula helps to prevent this reaction from taking place, meaning that the fuel reaches the boiler in optimum condition. This means you don't have to worry and can get on with the important things in life instead.

"We are very pleased indeed with the new Glowmax"

Mr Cappell, Somerset

Fewer emergency call-outs

Thanks to its advanced formula, Glowmax is kinder on your oil fired system than standard kerosene. This helps to improve reliability, meaning you can sleep soundly, knowing Glowmax reduces the likelihood of having problems and unexpected engineer bills.

“The new Glowmax is more efficient and we have had no problems at all”

Mrs Mills, Gloucestershire

Successfully trialled and tested by AGA

Half a million people in the UK own an oil fuel system and more owners than ever are being convinced of the protective performance value of using Glowmax. What's more, after some of the most rigorous testing and field trials in the business, you can be sure you simply can't get better for your oil fuel system!

"The new Glowmax is working exceptionally well - our AGA is working better than it has ever worked"

Mr Yates, Hampshire
